Mental Floss (94)

Posted by Coordinator 23 August 2008

Congratulations to John Simmons of ESTA who responded with: Just over 10cm. The number of grooves per cm is not relevant as the needle does not go round the record, the record turns and the needle travels from the outside edge to the centre. Because it follows a slightly curved path, the distance would be slightly more than 10cm. This week's question is:

A man stood looking through the window on the 50th floor of a skyscraper. Suddenly he was seized by an irrational impulse, he open the window and jumped. Though it was a sheer drop to the bottom, he escaped unhurt. He did not use a parachute or land on anything soft. Can you explain this ?

The 1st CIN member in with the correct response will receive a copy of Leading and Managing Change.

➤ Steak and Shake Denies Service

After picking my youngest son up from school, we decided to grab some shakes at the local Steak and Shake before heading over to the middle school to pick up Lauren.

I went through the empty drive through and drove past the speaker. After waiting a few minutes at the window, I finally honked the horn and waited some more. After a second honk a few minutes later, a young man appeared.

Karen Putz has been deaf since the age of 19, the result of a rare family gene. As a feature writer for the web site disaboom.com, Putz often chronicles issues relating to those with disabilities, including discrimination.

The screenshot shows the homepage of 'THE CONSUMERIST'. At the top left is a stylized black and white image of a man's face. To the right of this image are login fields for 'username:' and 'password:', a 'login' button, and a link for 'new user? help?'. The main title 'THE CONSUMERIST' is in large, bold, red letters. Below the title is the headline 'SHOPPERS BITE BACK. New Dairy Law In Ohio Designed To Strangle "rBGH-free" Labeling'. Underneath the headline are five small thumbnail images representing different consumer issues. To the right of these thumbnails is a link that says 'MORE TOP STORIES »'. At the bottom of the page, there is a navigation bar with 'CUSTOMER SERVICE' and 'ADA' links, a search bar, and a 'Search' button. On the far right, there is a vertical teal banner for '0% p.a. transfers' with an image of a credit card.

Steak 'N Shake Manager Denies Drive-Thru Service To Deaf Mother

A Steak 'N Shake manager refused to serve Karen Putz, a deaf mother of three, after she asked to place her order at the drive-thru window as allowed by the Americans with Disabilities Act. The manager claimed it was "policy" to force Karen to order like any other customer:

Crisis Case Study: Steak and Shake Refuses Service to Deaf Mom

by LIZ FULLER on February 12th, 2008

(www.businessandblogging.com) Yesterday Laura wrote about the use of blogs as part of a company's crisis management plan. Today I'd like to discuss a real-world PR crisis that is currently unfolding.

It's an interesting look at how quickly an incident can take on a life of its own - before a company can even begin to respond using traditional PR methods.

Steak & Shake Violates the ADA

Jan 25, 2008 | 12:44 PM

Category: News

Report This Post

Here's the original blog. I had not heard of this situation until this morning, and I'm not sure if the OP has seen any resolution yet.

Suffice it to say, Steak & Shake in Chicago refused to serve a deaf woman. They refused to even accommodate her at all. Who was waiting on her? The manager of the restaurant. Apparently Steak & Shake thinks that customers with disabilities aren't worth as much as those with none. Too bad, because my family is huge, and so is the disabled community of which we are a part.

No more Steak & Shake for us, and we hope you'll join us. I'll post more when I find out about any official boycotts or contact campaigns against S&S.

A plan to meet the future challenges

Over the last decade Melbourne has established itself as an international hub for business, education, medicine, arts and industry.

<http://www.futuremelbourne.com.au/wiki>

The screenshot shows the 'futuremelbourne' website. At the top, there's a navigation bar with colored buttons for 'people', 'creative', 'prosperous', 'knowledge', 'eco-city', and 'connected'. Below this is a 'Log In or Register' link. The main content area has a breadcrumb trail: 'Future Melbourne Wiki > FMPlan > WebHomeDiscussion'. There are buttons for 'Discussion', 'Edit', and 'Print version'. A large graphic with the text 'Future Melbourne: the city plan that anyone can edit.' is visible. Below this, there's a section titled 'Adjustment to second paragraph' with a text box containing the following text: 'We have asked you, our City of Melbourne Councillors and management team, our Future Melbourne Reference Group, our project partners, our key stakeholders and members of the eVillage to assist us in developing this draft plan, to edit the content that is there and to fill any gaps you identify.' A comment by Dale Bowerman dated 12 Mar 2008 follows, stating: 'I moved the following text up to the second paragraph:'. A sidebar on the left lists various sections like 'Home', 'The Plan', 'Table of Contents', 'Introduction', 'Vision', 'People', 'Creative', 'Prosperous', 'Knowledge', 'Eco-city', 'Connected', 'Strategic Growth Areas', 'Headline Targets', 'Monitoring & Review', 'Print Plan', and 'Participation'.

Distribution Social Networks

Gated communities distribute differently

Information Movement

- Application Directory

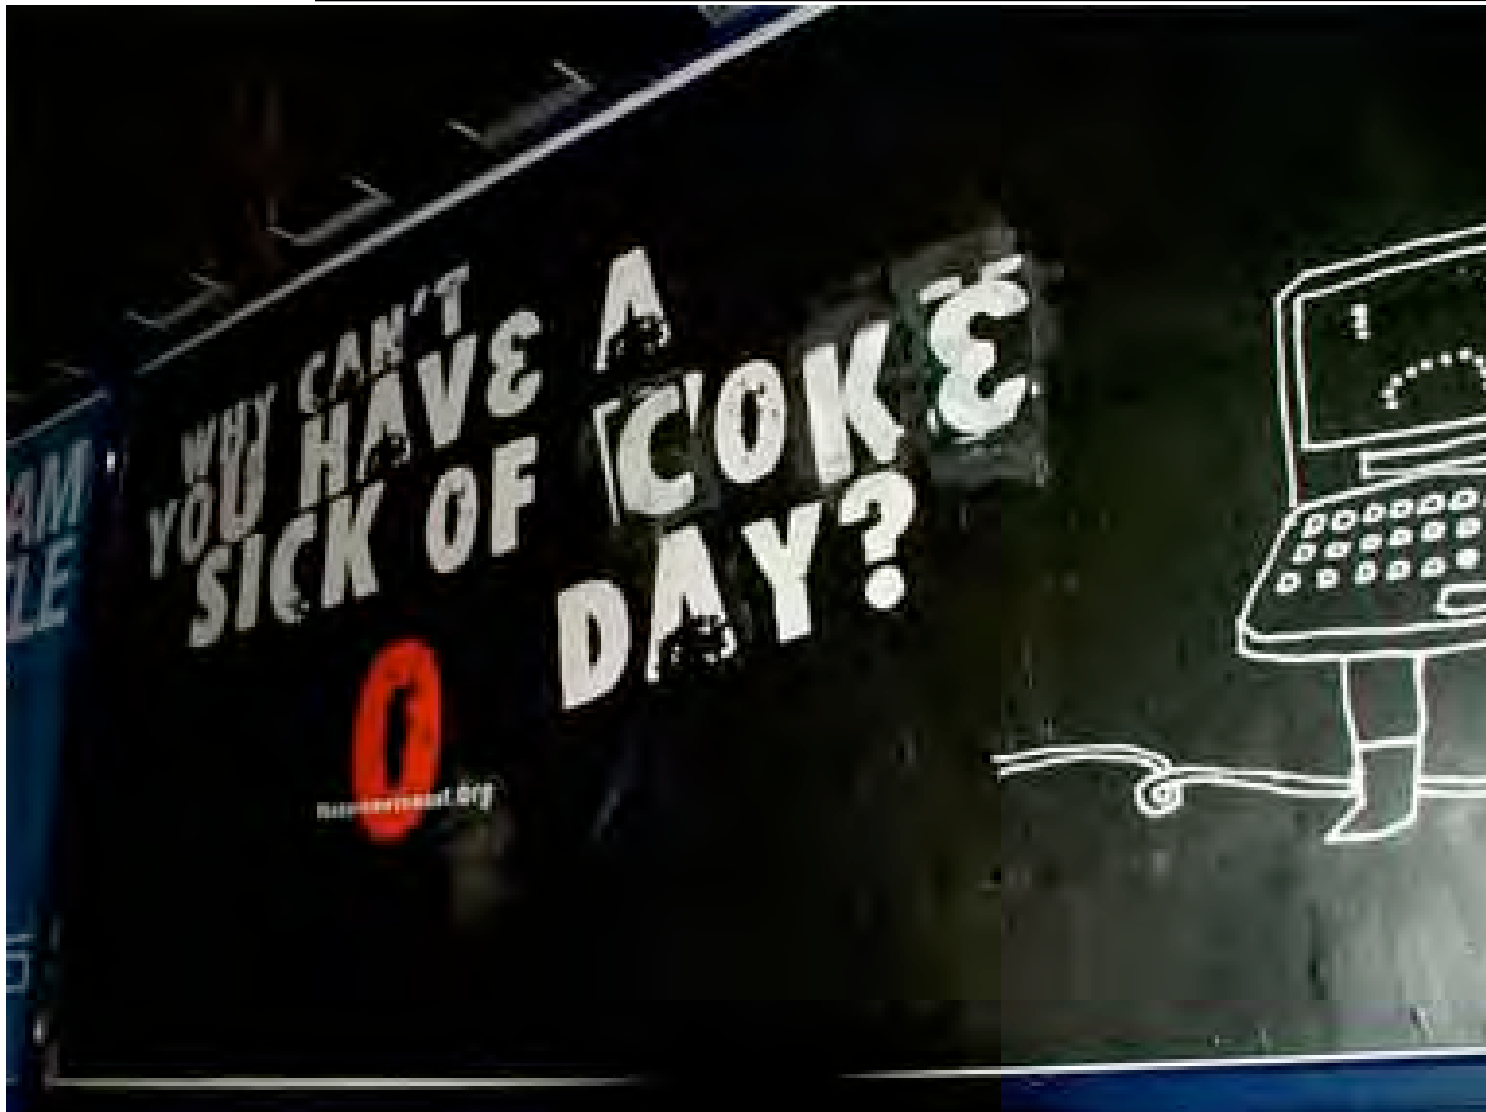

The screenshot shows a Facebook profile page for 'Kevin Rudd and Labor'. The top navigation bar includes 'Profile edit', 'Friends', 'Inbox (9)', and 'home account privacy logout'. The left sidebar contains a search bar and a list of applications: Clean Profile, Page Manager, Friend Block, Groups, Events, and Posted Items. The main content area features a large photo of Kevin Rudd surrounded by a crowd of supporters. Below the photo is an 'Information' section with the website 'http://www.alp.org.au/'. To the right, there are sections for 'View Updates', 'Share', 'Fans' (6 of 23,228 fans), and 'Photos' (5 albums). The 'Fans' section lists Elizabeth Martinez, Andrew MacPherson, James Massey, Ludy Judith Melgarejo, Dean Swannack, and Shani Wong. The 'Photos' section shows a photo titled 'Election Day 2007'.

The screenshot shows a Facebook interface. At the top, the Facebook logo is on the left, and navigation links for 'Profile edit', 'Friends', 'Inbox (9)', 'home', 'account', and 'privacy' are on the right. A search bar is located below the logo. On the left sidebar, there is a section for 'Applications' with options like 'Clean Profile', 'Page Manager', 'Friend Block', 'Groups', 'Events', and 'Posted Items'. The main content area displays the group name 'We hate the Woolworths (Toolworths) Christmas Ad. AHHH'. Below the name is an 'Information' section with 'Basic Info' including 'Type: Business - Consumer Groups' and 'Description: Is anyone else already annoyed at the Woolies Christmas Ad? Only 5 weeks of it left.' A 'Photos' section below it states 'No one has uploaded any photos.' On the right side of the main content, there is a promotional image for a Woolworths Christmas commercial featuring a woman in a Santa hat and apron, with text: 'We wish Mer Christ', 'View our Ch commercial', and a 'View Discussion Board' link.

Welcome to the Zero Coke movement...

Waste, pollution and questionable nutrition are at the centre of Coke's business model.

Drinks don't need cheesy theme songs, a posse of trucks, or plastic/aluminium containers.

But thanks to companies like Coke, land is cleared and waste & pollution are created just to make sure people have sweetened, chilled beverages.

All this in a world where one person in five has ZERO access to clean drinking water.
